MOSSADEGH IS VESTED WITH HIGH POWERS

Tehran, Iran (AP)—Iran's Senate in a complete about-face today voted Premier Mohammed Mossadegh authority to govern the country for the next six months as he sees fit.

The upper house gave final approval to the sweeping grant of power which on Saturday it had refused to adopt without further study.

The Majlis lower house already had approved the measure, which now is enacted into law. It gives the Premier the right to govern by decree in nearly every phase of Iranian life.

The Senate, after refusing the final action on Saturday, had sent a delegation to the aged nationalist leader asking for more information about his plans and asking also that he modify his demand for power.

Mossadegh, however, refused to scale down his request for the sweeping authority, which he contended was necessary to save the near-bankrupt country from economic ruin.

The Premier got a setback yesterday, however, in the Majlis. The lower house refused his request for extension of the martial law he clamped on the country last March.

Superintendent Of Police Is Suspended

Pittsburgh (AP)—Police Superintendent Harvey J. Scott is under suspension today for the second time in little more than a year following complaints he was involved in a disturbance at an East Liberty restaurant.

Safety Director E. A. Fairley, who announced the suspension, said witnesses told him Scott became involved in an argument with five men and then with the woman operator of the restaurant Saturday night, and was hit on the head with a water pitcher. Fairley, who suspended Scott for 45 days last year after he was accused of being drunk and belligerent before a special state grand jury, said the veteran police official will get a personal hearing.

Rain Arrives to Alleviate Ravages Of Summer Long Drought in New England

By The Associated Press
A large part of the country had scattered showers and thunderstorms today. It included New England, which still needed moisture to alleviate ravages of a summer long drought.

The Gulf states, another drought area which has had some relief, had warm and humid weather.

Scattered showers on the Central Plains westward from Illinois, in the Northern Great Lakes region and in the Rocky Mountains brought cooler temperatures. It was fair in the Far West, except for clouds and drizzle along the Pacific Coast.

Freak storms Sunday flailed two areas separated by almost the width of the continent.

A near-cloudburst sent a wall of water 50 to 75 feet high rolling down the bed of an ordinarily small creek near Yakima, Wash. A mother and her five-year-old son were missing in the wake of the flash flood that carried away seven houses. Four other persons were injured. The flood and high wind caused damage to trees, power lines and highways.

A two minute, 82-miles-an-hour windstorm tore down houses and small buildings, trees and power lines in Monmouth County, N. J. and damaged four big planes and installations at McGuire Air Force Base at Fort Dix.

Communication with Officials In New York Fails to Unearth Any Trace of Czechoslovakian

Warren county's mountaintop mystery, the disappearance of Mrs. Gordon F. Wells from Robbins Hill 13 days ago, deepened today along with the inability of New York authorities to locate Wassilij Gussev, the Czechoslovakian displaced person who left the Wells home on July 29 for New York.

Asked early this morning for a statement regarding certain new leads which have developed in the case, Sheriff L. E. Linder said he was not in a position to release such information at this time.

Contacts made by telephone by Sheriff Linder with several agencies in New York have not as yet unearthed any trace of the man after he boarded a bus in Warren. The unusual appearance of Gussev, who had learned to speak some English since his arrival at the Wells home in Frewsburg last November, was expected to aid in spotting him for questioning.

While it is felt that much depends upon the ability of Gerry Mead of Russell RD 1, to recollect the identity of the man he saw sitting

World War One Vet New Commander of American Legion

Philadelphia (AP)—Herbert M. Walker of Langhorne, 64-year-old veteran of World War One, is the new commander of the Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion.

Walker, who succeeds Jack H. Dodson of Greensburg, was elected at the close of the state Legion's 34th annual four-day convention here Saturday.

An estimated 7,500 Legionnaires paraded at the climax of the convention, which was highlighted by drum and bugle corps and band competitions.

Sunbury captured the $150 first prize for Class A bands, Willow Grove placed second and New Castle third, each winning $100 prizes. Bellefonte was judged the best of Class B bands, winning top money of $150. Claysburg placed second for $75 in prize money.

Somerset won Drum and Bugle Corps competition to take a $150 prize with Millersburg placing second, $100 and Slatingsburg third, $75.

STRANGLES ON TOY

Pittsburgh (AP)—While a physician and a throat specialist worked frantically to save him, a 2-year-old boy of nearby Morgan strangled last night after swallowing a toy plaster dog. Ronald Tomikel picked up the two-inch-long toy from a what-not shelf stuffed it in his mouth.

His parents found him and called doctors but they were unable to save the child's life.

Resident Seeks the Aid of Police After Pet Dog Bars Him From Entering Home

City police cited a quiet Friday, Saturday and Sunday with no motor vehicle accidents reported for the second straight weekend. There have been no accidents reported within the borough since the end of July.

One incident was decidedly out of the ordinary routine, however, when a local man called police at 10:30 o'clock last evening after he tried to enter his home and was barred from his doorway by his dog. Officers got past the animal and allowed the owner to enter. What happened to the dog is not reported.

Officers spent some time on the east side yesterday, re-timing traffic lights after the electric power was off for a three hour period early in the morning.

Also early yesterday morning, police received one of a series of complaints about excessive noise in and around a local dinor. They visited the dinor and spent some time in the vicinity, reporting that everything was orderly and that they observed nothing out of the way.

At 9:40 p. m. yesterday, they were called to the rear of the bus barns where a fuse had blown in a large transformer. They notified Penelock repair crews, who took care of the matter.

Friday evening, police rounded up a group of boys on the west side who were armed with slingshots. They talked to the boys' parents about the matter. They broke up a noisy gang of youngsters on South South street in the early hours of Saturday morning.

Officers were also called upon to quiet a family battle on the south side of town Friday evening.

OSS SLAYING IS RECALLED BY DECISION

Buffalo, N. Y. (AP)—Federal Judge John Knight today refused to order Carl G. LoDolce extradited to Italy to face a murder charge in the wartime cloak and dagger slaying of an OSS major.

Italy had asked extradition of the 30-year-old former Army sergeant from Rochester in the killing of Maj. William V. Holohan, his commanding officer in the Office of Strategic Services.

Holohan was slain during a secret mission behind German lines in Northern Italy in December, 1944.

Judge Knight ruled that the treaty of 1868 providing for extradition was not effective inasmuch as the place where the crime was committed was occupied by German armies.

Also accused of being involved was former Lt. Aldo Icardi of Pittsburgh, a third OSS man on the mission. Italy has made no move to extradite Icardi since a move in Federal Court in Pittsburgh was dismissed in early April. Both Icardi and LoDolce say they are innocent.

In a 13-page opinion Judge Knight reviewed the circumstances surrounding the murder.

He described details of the crime as "so gruesome as to be almost unbelievable were they not supported by the written and oral confessions of LoDolce and the testimony of numerous other individuals."

Judge Knight's ruling climaxed a long legal proceeding that began last March when Italy obtained a warrant under which LoDolce was taken into federal custody.

He was released here April 3 on $5,000 bail.

47,000 Draftees To Be Called in Oct.

Washington (AP)—The Army today called for 47,000 draftees in October.

This compares with 30,000 asked for September and would bring to 932,000 the total called by the Army since inductions resumed in Sept., 1950.

In addition, 81,480 men have been drafted by the Marine Corps. The Army said the 17,000 increase in the October call, by comparison with September, is necessary because men inducted during the latter part of 1950 are nearing the end of their draft tours.

Only the Army is now using the draft. The Navy and the Air Force have relied completely upon volunteering to meet Korean War and long range build-up requirements in addition to the calling of reserves. The Marine Corps halted drafting last May.

THORPE IS REPORTED SOMEWHAT IMPROVED

Henderson, Nev. (AP)—Jim Thorpe, the great Carlisle Indian athlete of yesteryear who suffered a heart attack last week, was home from the hospital today but under doctor's orders to take things easy.

The former football great and Olympic champion, now 64, was unconscious when admitted to the hospital Friday, but his doctor said he had shown constant improvement.

McIntosh Company of Richmond, Va., completed over the weekend the resurfacing of about three miles of Pennsylvania state highway Route 59, from Tracy to the state line. Fourteen carloads of gravel and two tankers of tar were previously shipped here by way of the Pennsylvania railroad for the resurfacing project.

Three Stancil children, Wilson Johnson, 28; Michael, five and Thomas, three, also were hurt. Wilson suffered hand and arm lacerations and was discharged from the Mercy Hospital Sunday. Michael, apparently the most seriously injured, has fractures of the right shoulder, right arm, jaw, possible skull fracture and multiple lacerations of the face and nose. Thomas had his left knee severely bruised.

It was raining at the time, Woodard stated. The injured, excepting Johnson, are confined to the Mercy hospital. Nye was not hurt.

BEER DISTRIBUTOR BUSINESS CHANGE

Effective Tuesday, August 12, Warren's oldest beer-distributor business will change ownership by the sale by R. K. McLean of his distributorship to Thomas Fisher, 205 W. Third avenue.

Mr. Fisher will continue to handle the same brands as his predecessor, and retain the same location at 102 Crescent Park.

Established in 1933, when Mr. McLean came to Warren from Erie, the business was the second distributor's license in Warren, the first being the late James Madden.

Mr. McLean told the Times-Mirror this morning that following a vacation trip, he will make his home in Warren until November, at least. After that time, his plans are indefinite.

FAIL IS FATAL

QUICKIES

...probably only a heavy fog—but let's look in the Times Mirror Want Ads for something other than a basement apartment!"

The first month of Operation Skywatch has proven highly successful according to George R. Eberhardt, supervisor of the Warren Observation Post. Skywatch, the 24-hour duty for civilian volunteers in the Ground Observer Corps in 27 states throughout the country, was implemented one month ago by the Air Force to supplement the nation's radar network in providing continuing aerial surveillance for air defense.

Mr. Eberhardt, commenting on the local volunteers' reaction, says "We have every reason to be pleased at the way the post has been run during the first weeks of constant duty. Enthusiasm has been very high and in many cases we have had members turn up at the post even when they weren't scheduled. With such a reaction we have been able to iron out the few initial problems immediately, and our operational efficiency has shown a decided increase over that of the training periods prior to Skywatch."

During the first month two-man teams have been scheduled to work four-hour shifts in manning the post, and at present the frequency of these shifts is only one per week.

Slightly over 90 fully trained volunteers are now active in operating the post. Mr. Eberhardt pointed out, however, that there is room for an increase in volunteer strength, for those in and around Warren who are anxious to join in the defense effort.

Discussing the volunteers' reaction to constant operation of the Post, Jay Fees, Chief Observer at the Post said, "Everyone realizes the necessity for keeping the post in action 24 hours a day. When you consider that by working one shift a week each of us is giving the Air Force constant aerial surveillance in the Warren area, you realize how much we are contributing to the national air defense system at virtually no inconvenience to any of us."

Aircraft sighted by observer teams at the post are reported by phone to the Air Force Filter Center at Buffalo. Information on all aircraft activity is received there from the many posts in this section of the state and is immediately relayed to the radar network, where it is combined with information picked up by the radar system.

Refugee Confirms Story of Escape From Czech Prison

Munich, Germany (AP)—A Czech refugee said today John Hvasta escaped with him and four other prisoners last Jan. 2 from a Czech prison where Hvasta, an American was serving a 10-year sentence as a spy.

The refugee's story supported an official Czech announcement of Aug. 8 that Hvasta escaped Jan. 2 and that his whereabouts since are unknown.

The story of the escape was told in an interview by Jaroslav Burec, 30.

Burec said "four prominent political prisoners" died at the same time as himself and Hvasta, but he did not name them.

He identified the prison as one at Lejoldov, 30 miles northeast of Bratislava, where only prominent prisoners or those considered especially dangerous were held. By Burec's account:

The six fugitives slipped out unnoticed by guards, late in the afternoon. They parted into two groups of three at a river two miles away. Hvasta went one way, while Burec went another. They planned to meet again, but never were able to locate each other thereafter.

CHINESE REDS DIGGING IN ON SIBERIAN HILL

Seoul, Korea (AP)—Allied fighter-bombers today turned a big North Korean chemical plant into a mass of raging flames in a concentrated attack with high explosives and fire bombs.

The Fifth Air Force said 150 planes, including Marine fighter-bombers, heaped destruction on the chemical plant near Namsok which is about 30 miles northwest of the battered east coast port of Wonsan.

Returning pilots said great clouds of black smoke hung over the building area, which covers a mountain side.

The low, shell-scarred knob east of the Panmunjom truce site has exchanged hands five times in two days. The Reds first seized it from 1st Marine Division troops before dawn Saturday.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said Sabre jet pilots today probably destroyed one Russian-made MIG15 and damaged another in the eighth straight day of jet battles over North Korea. This ran the U. N. MIG bag for the eight days to 19 destroyed, one probably destroyed, and 20 damaged.

In today's clash near the Manchurian border, four Sabres fought four MIG's at 35,000 feet.

A U. S. Eighth Army night communiqué said fighting continued today for the lonely outpost on Siberia Hill. Enemy casualties through Sunday in the hill fight were estimated at 225 killed and 250 wounded.

U. N. warplanes flew more than 100 sorties, individual flights against the hill with flaming gasoline, rockets, bombs and machine-gun fire.

Fighting closed to hand-to-hand battle several times since the Reds first captured the hill. The Chinese last recaptured it at 5 a. m. today.

The temperature rose to 104 degrees at times during the furious fighting.

U. N. planes swept up and down the front line smashing Communist targets.

About 150 Air Force and attached Marine fighter-bombers hit a North Korea chemical plant and troop concentration at noon today.

The Fifth Air Force said pilots on the chemical plant said reported destruction of 29 occupied buildings and two others. It said they also damaged a power station, started raging fires and observed a secondary explosion.

Young Girl Drowns After Motorboat Is Swamped at Lake

Jamestown—A panic stricken Clymer teenager who reportedly "couldn't swim a stroke" fought her way out of the rescuing arms of her fiance Saturday and drowned before his horrified eyes after waves swamped their outboard motorboat near Mayville. Chautauqua Lake's second victim of the year was Josephine TeCulver, 18, a furniture finisher at King Factories, Mayville, whose body was recovered yesterday afternoon following 18 hours of dragging operations. Coroner Harry Hemstreet, of Mayville, issued a certificate of accidental death.

The tragedy was a deep personal one for her fiance, Rodney Hawley, also 18, of Mayville, who together with his cousin, Clifford Wiltzie, 23, of Frewsburg, tried to save the girl before she sank out of sight only a few hundred yards offshore from Chautauqua Lake Boat yard. The young people had announced their engagement recently.

Cries of help, although too late to save the attractive girl, brought a quick rescue to the two young men from Joseph Mayer, assistant foreman at the boat yard, and his young brother, David, who sped to the scene in a service launch.

The accident happened about 1:30 p. m. when white-capped waves swept over the side of the eight-foot boat, then knocked its occupants overboard as they stood up in the water-filled craft.

First on the scene after the boat yard personnel rescued the young men and dragged the swamped boat to shore were Mayville Fire Chief Jack Sommers, who directed dragging operations, Chautauqua Fire Chief Norman Becker, the Jamestown Ambulance Service and Lakewood Fire Chief Larry Bramstong, directing that department's Lake Rescue Squad.

They soon were joined by firemen and equipment from Cassadaga, Celoron, Westfield, Maple Springs, Stockton, Sugar Grove, Bemus Point, Plattsburgh, DeWittville.

The boat operated by William Fry, Mayville fireman, and manned by Donald Nelson, Isadore Van House, Sam Knickerbocker and James Dale, Celoron firemen, located the body which apparently came to rest in a deep hole at the lake bottom near the scene of the accident.

GRAND VALLEY DRIVER IN THREE ACCIDENTS

Titusville—A Grand Valley man, Howard Colvin, 25, was involved in about three accidents in this vicinity Saturday morning, according to State Police at Meadville. They said they are placing charges of hit and run driving while intoxicated against him.

About 10:15 a. m. Colvin was driving out of the Universal-Cyclops Corporation gates, where he had called on an errand and damaged one of the gates in passing, officers said.

State Police said he then continued on Route 27 and just outside of Titusville struck a car operated by Garnet Montgomery, 49, of Oil City, Route 2. He did not stop, officers said.

A disinterested witness followed the auto to Enterprise where the man ran into a gasoline pump, and abandoned the car. Investigating officers found Colvin at home.

GARLAND MOTORIST HAS DIFFICULTIES

Titusville—A Garland motorist who hit a car on West Spring street Saturday afternoon and then drove off without stopping, got off with only a charge of drunkenness against him when the owner of the car did not press the hit-and-run count.

The accident was reported by Clifford Shaffer of Greenwich, O., whose car was hit from the rear by the Garland man. Mr. Shaffer gave the Garland driver's car license number to police.

Officers found the Garland man parked on North Franklin street later. They said he was drunk and asleep over the wheel. He was locked up, but not before he had paid Mr. Shaffer for slight damages to the rear bumper of the latter's car.

Mr. Shaffer said he would be unable to stay for a hearing for the hit-and-run on Monday, so a simple charge of drunkenness was brought against the Garland driver.

He posted a $5 forfeit late Saturday night to appear for a hearing today.

Medical science lowered the death rate from measles, diphtheria and whooping cough by more than 90 per cent in one generation.

Proposed School Jointure Is Discussed In Letter From Committee of Taxpayers

The following letter sponsored by a committee of taxpayers is respectfully called to the attention of every resident of Pine Grove, Freehold, Sugar Grove, Conewango, Elk, Farmington and the northern section of the county generally, since it pertains to the question of school jointure and a proposed taxpayers meeting to be announced later:

Warren Times-Mirror.
Dear Sir:

Some time ago an article was published in the Warren Times-Mirror entitled "Why a Jointure?" This article inquired as to whether the people of the County were to be fully informed regarding the proposed jointure with Warren Borough. It also asked several questions about the follow up on such a plan.

About the same time the above article was published an answer appeared in your paper that stated that full information would be given to the public. It did not answer any of the questions that were asked by the above article. Since that time little has appeared that would throw much light on the real operation of such a plan, and little else regarding this particular plan has appeared. Does this mean that nothing of any real importance has happened?

It is gratifying to report that much has been done in the Pine Grove Township Area and that the co-operation that has been received in securing information relative to the establishment of a consolidated school in the northern tier of townships has been heartening.

A committee of tax payers from Pine Grove Township has visited each one of the school directors to poll his opinion with regard to the possibility of such a venture. A majority of the directors have advised the committee that they are willing to do what they can along this line, if it is the will of the public.

The committee of tax payers then visited the County Superintendent's office and learned that such a plan would provide the necessary number of pupils for such a venture, and some of the other facts necessary for such a plan.

Meetings with other townships in the above area have revealed that they are willing to help, if it is finally decided to proceed, with the plan of consolidation. There have been many favorable comments and much encouragement toward this kind of action.

The committee of tax payers has been assured that before any move is made to either build or to join in the Warren Consolidation that a Pine Grove Township tax payers' meeting will be held and that the tax payers will be permitted to vote on the issue.

In order to give the tax payers' committee and the school directors information that would be of value in making such a momentous decision it has been thought advisable to request the general public in the townships of Pine Grove, Freehold, Sugar Grove, Conewango, Elk, and Farmington, and also Sugar Grove Borough an opportunity to indicate how many persons in the northern section of Warren County are interested in such a move. The people of Pine Grove Township should be especially interested.

For the above mentioned reasons it is requested that each and every citizen in the above mentioned townships, that would be interested in seeing such a consolidation, mail a post card with their name and address on it and the statement, "I am interested in seeing a northern consolidation", to any one of the members of the tax payer's group listed below, before August 15th, 1932. Act at once.

It is also important that all tax payers of Pine Grove Township watch for the announcement of the coming tax payers' meeting and then attend.

ESCAPES DIVE IN RIVER

A car driven by Mrs. James Gordon of Embleton, Route 2, and in which Mrs. Wendel McGinnis of Embleton was riding, narrowly escaped from plunging into the Clarion River Thursday afternoon. The car's brakes failed on the hilly detour near Clarion. It struck the car in front of it, then went across the highway and was stopped by the guard rail along the river bank. Mrs. Gordon said she had just purchased the car that morning and the brakes apparently failed. No one was hurt.

TRACTOR FATALITY

A tractor overturned and caught fire Friday night, killing Gilbert J. Wood, of Geneva, near Meadville, who was trapped underneath.

PENELEC INCOME

Net income for the Pennsylvania Electric Co. jumped nearly $600,000 during the first six months of 1932. The company said today net income for the first six months of 1932 was $3,929,479 compared to $3,331,336 for the same period a year ago. Net sales reached $24,914,769, compared to $23,304,427 for the first six months of 1931.

LIONS CLUB MEETING

It will be back to the old eating place for members of the Warren Lions Club Tuesday. The XWCA activities building will ring again with "Roar Lions, Roar," at 12:15 o'clock. The chairman of the program committee warns "Lions, if you don't attend you will miss the Miss. She is Marga Schmitz, student from Germany visiting Warren this summer." An interesting talk and program is assured.

BAN IMPORTING SWINE

The importation of all swine, except those intended for immediate slaughter, has been banned in Pennsylvania. The State Agriculture Department took the action yesterday as a precaution against a new livestock disease that already has appeared in 20 other states. Secretary Miles Horst identified the disease as vesicular exanthema. He said it has been discovered in four counties in neighboring New Jersey and one each in New York and Ohio.

GOOD NEWS FOR DADS

Pennsylvania's draft-age fathers can rest relatively free from induction fears for at least the next three to six months, the State Selective Service Headquarters has indicated. Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft boss, said in Washington last week that men deferred because of dependents may be "resurveyed" because of the shrinking manpower pool. "We have a pool of about 6,500 men who have been examined and accepted," said Lt. Col. Frank J. Graf, deputy State Selective Service director. "We are now drawing from the group born in 1930 and 1931."

NEWSPAPER PRICES MUST BE INCREASED!

The price of newsprint has been increased twice within 6 months, each time $10.00 per ton. All other items entering into the publication of a newspaper have been increased in a like manner. Practically every newspaper in the country has been forced to increase their subscription and advertising rates.

Up to the present THE TIMES-MIRROR has absorbed all of these increases without any increase in the cost of the paper. Advertising Rates are also unchanged. How long we will be able to "HOLD THE LINE" with these rates we do not know, but if materials and services continue to raise it is inevitable that THE TIMES-MIRROR will have to have an increase.

As usual, THE TIMES-MIRROR IS CELEBRATING DOLLAR DAYS ALONG WITH A MAJORITY OF THE PROGRESSIVE MERCHANTS OF WARREN ON FRIDAY and SATURDAY, August 15th and 16th.

You can renew your subscription at the old rate and in addition, save a dollar on each yearly subscription. You can pay as many years as you desire and save a dollar on each year, in addition to what you will save if we are forced to increase rates.

HELL'S HORSEMAN

BY WILLIAM HOPSON

Chapter 28
THREE of the riders—Buckner, Black Jack Caswell, and the Dutchman—apparently had other ideas. They rode on up the lane and pulled up in front of the steps leading up eight feet to the veranda.

"Hey," called Buckner. "Anybody at home?"

There was no answer. "Probably took the squaws with dem," grunted the Dutchman disappointedly.

He twisted his huge girth and saddle leather creaked as they swung down. Buckner was first up the steps, still carrying his sawed-off. Stuck into the waistband of his pants was a short-barreled pistol whose front sight had been freshly filed down to prevent snagging. Black Jack and the bigger man followed. They were halfway to the top, with Buckner still in the lead, when the front door opened and Montana stepped through with his father at his heels. The elder Thornton held a heavy six-shooter, barrel down, at his right side.

"Howdy," Black Jack said affably, grinning through his glossy beard. "Nice mornin'."

"This is the pay-off," Montana said.

He might have found something else to say. There might have been an explanation as to how and why they had decided to come. But in the silence that followed, the smashing roar of a Winchester broke out from down at the corral, and to a man the three wheeled. It sang out again, back of the blacksmith shop, across from the bunk house, not thirty yards away. One rider was down in the doorway, and with the second shot a man yelled and leaped forward to drag him inside while another slammed the door. Austin, calmly working the lever on his Winchester, put a third shot through one of the small windows of the box-shaped affair and effectively sealed in the men of the Buckner-Caswell-Saunders gang of horse thieves and cut-throats.

The Dutchman wheeled, his face a mask of fury. From somewhere a gun flashed out and then the air over the steps seemed filled with flame spurts and a thin veil of black powder smoke. Black Jack wheeled sideways, right hand already inside his old coat, and short jets of flame lashed out from under his partly raised left arm.

King Ramson fired only once, a wild shot that missed its target by five feet and slashed a long gash in a porch support before one of Black Jack's shots drove him back against the wall and left him sagging.

Fire caught the raider then. He was spun completely around and Montana shot him twice through the side as he turned and tumbled down. Then Montana turned his guns on the Dutchman and Buckner. Saunders' bestial face turned a bursting red as the blood seemed driven to it by the shocking impact of the big bullets.

But Montana, the terror of the killing still upon him, and making him shaky, had missed Buckner. He had missed him at not more than ten feet as Buckner, deadly cold and unperturbed, slapped the sawed-off into his left hand and snatched the pistol from his waistband.

"Alas," he spat out triumphantly, probably meaning that a man with a waistband gun could come out victor in a pistol duel even with that flaming-faced raider on the porch above him.

He might have attained his victory, too, except that from a corner of the porch another man, his face swollen and blue, had stepped into view with a short saddle carbine in his big hands. It exploded once, snap shooting of the kind Carson had done on startled deer, and then a hot, empty shell went spinning over the rail of the porch as Ben Carson jerked the lever. He gave only a cursory glance at the body rolling down the steps and then went over in a one-hand vault. He landed heavily eight feet below and began a lumbering run for the protection of the barn. From there he could cover the back of the bunk house where Caswell's raiders were barred in.

MONTANA turned slowly to look at his father. Thornton sagged against the wall beside the doorway, his gun gone, one hand clamped to his side. The fingers that had broken more than one man in physical combat but never mastered the use of a pistol were turning red against the spreading blotch on his shirt.

A woman's cry came from somewhere, and Belle, in a long white gown, came running, followed by Helen Forrest. Helen looked at Montana, at his unshaven, haggard face and tired eyes, at the two pistols in his hands. He saw the look. It might have held fear, new horror—he wasn't sure. He turned to Belle, who was slipping an arm around her father's waist. "Better get him inside quick in case of shots from the bunk house," he heard his voice saying almost wearily, and ran for the barn himself.

It was over in a surprisingly short time. Carson had run out of shells and gone to the house to get Buckner's sawed-off shotgun, the nine pellets from each load he poured into windows playing havoc with the fearful men back of the walls. The doors were splintered sieves and all the windows were shot out when, less than an hour later, a bandana waved from the window.

Montana sat there in the barn in the midst of a pile of scattered shells, watching as Austin and Carson took over the unarmed captives who came filing out with their hands in the air. He saw Helen on the porch, saw Belle come out and stand anxiously beside her; he felt sick again and suddenly very lonely.

It was while the other two men herded the prisoners toward the front porch that Montana made his decision. He picked up his saddle, clched in on a long-legged claybank, led the animal out the opposite end of the barn, and mounted. A group of trees grew along the west rim of the basin, south of the corral, and into these he disappeared, unseen.

Chapter 29
A MONTH passed and things changed on the ranch. The basin bloomed and grew still greener and new men came. Up in a cleared spot in the timber, grass began to grow over five unmarked graves, beneath which rested Black Jack Caswell, Dutch Saunders, Buckner, and two of their raiders killed in the bunk house. Seven more went on trial in Cheyenne and, with Austin and the two women testifying, heard a judge close the doors of a penitentiary upon them with a sentence of from thirty to fifty-five years. Carson returned with them on the train and got off at Smeller-A-Mile to find his friend Pete had sold out and disappeared. The spring lengthened into summer as two more months went by. Things were still changing.

NEW men had come into the back country. Quiet men who wore the badge of U. S. deputy marshals beneath their shirts, backed by other men who had been picked for their jobs. Lone riders hiding out in cabins stepped out of a morning to find themselves facing guns in the hands of these same men. Horse thieves rounding a trail jerked up sharp and raised their hands as other men stepped from concealment. Some of those captured were the King's former raiders, the men who had rustled his stock while they drew his gun pay. Word went out along the dim trails that the back country wasn't safe any more, and the cabins soon became shelter only for the pack rats who scurried past open, wind-banged doors.

The law was coming in. On an early afternoon in July a rider jogged out of the timber and headed his horse toward the creek that flowed through one end of Buckner's corral. It was a little wider of late from recent rains, but the water flowed clear and clean over the gravel and the horse sank its warm muzzle deep. Montana sat there in the saddle, a little surprised to see smoke coming from the kitchen stove-pipe and a couple of horses in the lot.

Three months seemed to have done wonders for him. He was filled out and healthy-looking and the haggard look was gone from his young countenance. There was in it both eagerness and longing as his eyes swept past the house and along the road that led to the ranch four miles away.

As the horse raised its dripping muzzle and rolled the bit in its mouth the back door of the former stage station flew open. A man came through it, running. He legged it straight for the bank of the creek, turned long enough to shake his fist at the belligerent Assiniboine woman in the doorway, and then did a beautiful slide down the bank. He sat there, a look of disgust upon his face, until he saw the grinning rider.

Recognition was mutual, and Pete, the saloonman from Smeller-A-Mile, got to his feet. He jammed both fists upon his hips and glared.

"What in the hell are you grinnin' at you ring-tailed, blankety-blank polecat?" he roared.

"You," Montana said, urging his horse on across. "I thought 'Me good cook,' she says. 'I don't care if you are,' I says. 'My blankety-blank stomach won't take them steaks of yours.' Then she gets mad. 'You eat more,' she hollers. 'I'm damned if I will,' I holler back. Then she throws the bloomin' skillet at me. Look at 'em! Now they're laughin' at me. They drinks up my whiskey an' then laugh at me. Me—the owner of the place!"

"Owner?" Montana queried. "You own this place?"

"We-el-l," Pete admitted, a little sheepishly. "I just sorta moved in a couple months ago after I sold out in Smeller-A-Mile and come up here."

Montana laughed again, bade Pete good-bye, left him to his marital woes, and rode on toward the cut. He was in no particular hurry. Austin probably wouldn't be in until sundown. Montana let the mount under him take its own time, and the sun had swung far down toward the west rim of the basin when he finally rode through the cut and headed his horse toward the ranch buildings.

He reached the lower corral and jogged up the lane past the bunk house where three men lounged on the bench outside, waiting for supper call. One of them, not a day under sixty, looked up, recognized the rider, and lifted a hand in greeting. Montana went on past and saw Austin over beyond the corral, opening a gate to enter and unsaddled.

The ranch had changed a little, in that just north of the corral and not far from the big mansion a small but comfortable house, new and gleaming with fresh paint, had been erected. On the porch stood Belle, his half-sister.

She saw him coming and her hand went up to her throat as he rode up. He reined up and swung to the ground in a long step, and he noted the clean house dress she wore and the apron around her waist. She looked fresh and wholesome, and yet this was a different Belle from the one he had known so briefly before.

Grassland Meeting At State College

State College—Representatives of more than 55 countries will meet and exchange information on agricultural developments at the eighth International Grassland Congress to be held at the Pennsylvania State College August 17 to 27.

Sponsored by the United States government and the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the Congress at Penn State will be the first to be held in the United States.

More than half of the 230 papers to be presented at the week-long Congress will be presented by experts from countries other than the United States.

Topics for discussion include breeding and development of forage plants, management and improvement of cultivated and range pastures, soil conservation and fertilization, seed production and harvesting, and the harvesting and preservation of forage and its use in the production of meat, milk and other animal products.

Dr. H. R. Albrecht, head of the department of agronomy at Penn State, who is chairman of local arrangements, explains that the Congress is expected to provide the scientific know-how that will enable leaders from the participating countries to establish a more profitable and productive farming program.

STUDY OF MENTAL DISEASE

There are today about a half million patients in mental institutions in this country. That's one out of every 300 population.

The incidence of mental disease is about one in 20. That means one out of every 20 people now has a mental disease, has had it, or will have it.

Because mental hospitals are so overcrowded, many people suffering from mental disease cannot get in. Just how many is not definitely known.

Furthermore, according to the American Psychiatric Association, about 45 per cent of the patients in mental hospitals are in the old-age group—"with or without psychoses," an association spokesman explains.

His point is that too many people are being placed in public mental institutions today because rising costs of living have made it impossible for their relatives to support them.

But there is another angle of the relationship between mental disease and economic status that is being explored in a trail-breaking study by a team of Yale University scientists working with support of a $78,000 grant from the United States Public Health Service.

Already the Yale team reports it has found a higher rate of deranged persons in the lower social-economic classes and more neurotics in the higher.

Also, schizophrenia, the leading mental disease, was found to occur mostly in lower economic classes. About 40 percent of all mental hospital patients are schizophrenics, and unfortunately for the country's welfare, the disease strikes most heavily at younger people.

While they draw few positive conclusions from their studies thus far, the scientists suggest that the large number of seriously deranged persons in the lower economic group may be because they couldn't afford to have, or continue to have the necessary treatment, and so the diseases became progressively worse.

Most of the poorer cases studied were in state hospitals, while 60 percent of the more well-to-do had private care.

Generally, as the economic level of the patient rose, so did the quality of the therapeutic treatment he received.

But the study has only just gotten under way, comparatively speaking. Much remains to be done in this as in other aspects of a disease which takes such a large toll of our people. The contribution of the Yale group can be an important one.

WELL, IT'S A THOUGHT, ANYWAY . . .

Two seemingly related items land on the desk at the same time. One says this country has the highest divorce rate in the world. The other says we drink more coffee than all the rest of the world put together.

Now how to tie them together, fraught with all kinds of hidden meaning and social insignificance, so they will fit right in this little space?

The only solution that occurs to us right off is to assume that there must be a lot of people like the couple that turned up out west a while back. He liked coffee but it made him sneeze all the time. She liked coffee, too, but she didn't like her husband sneezing morning, noon and night. So they got a divorce, and how much hidden meaning can you uncover in three paragraphs anyway?

SHERIFF NEEDS A RADIO

Over at Erie purchase of new radio equipment, costing $475, for a sheriff's deputy's car was approved last week by county commissioners. A $275 radio receiver will be installed by the Jordan Electric Co. and a $200 alternator will be put in by Briggs and Hagenlocker, Inc. The equipment will be used in Philip Carpenter's car. A radio-equipped car in the sheriff's department in this county would come in very handy during the search that has been conducted for Mrs. Gordon Wells in Elk township, which requires Sheriff L. E. Linder to be out of contact with his office for hours at a time because his official car lacks this important equipment. It so happens that the area where the sheriff and volunteers are working is not even served with telephones, and it is necessary at times to travel miles to reach a source of communication.

Benevolence Sure Is a Screwy Business

Here And There

Believe it or not fifty years ago this week The Evening Times came out with an article topped by glaring headlines which announced:

FIREMEN MUST DRIVE NO FASTER THAN A TROT!

Hereafter Fire Alarms Must Be Responded To Slowly!

Members of the Fire Department were thunderstruck Monday evening to find posted in a conspicuous manner in each of the company rooms the following notice:

"Notice . . . Drivers of fire apparatus driving to or from a fire are hereby directed not to drive any horse furnished by Clyde Smith for the Fire Department faster than a trot. This notice must be observed. . . Fire Department Committee of Town Council."

Investigation revealed that this was an astonishing fact; that the fire committee had actually intended the rule just as was written, and that hereafter the department must visit fires as if it were out for a pleasure ride.

The Evening Times interviewed Liveryman Clyde Smith and obtained his version of the order. Mr. Smith asserted that his best horses were taken from the livery stable by Tom, Dick and Harry, hitched to the heavy apparatus particularly in the Wearmore "Jumper" and driven at a hard run in a manner entirely reckless and very damaging to the animals.

He cited that at the last fire word was received that the department was not needed before the companies left the City Building, but nevertheless the run was made, the animals drawing the "Jumper" was whaled and finally pulled from its feet, and a runaway and probably the death of the horse narrowly averted.

After this circumstance he told the firemen that they could not use his horses any more for fire purposes, but as this placed the department in an unpleasant dilemma he finally consented to continue to provide the horses provided they were not driven faster than a trot, and this order being violated he would withdraw them altogether.

Smith provides six horses for fire purposes, two for the Watson wagon, two for the Fire Police wagon, one for the hook and ladder truck, and one for the "Jumper." The Centennial Horse own their own horse, and the Struthers pull their apparatus by hand and foot power.

It is a question of vital interest to every citizen, and one that must be settled soon. The various companies are naturally indignant and the Watsons threaten to abandon their wagon and a chemical outfit and go back to the old hand cart and jumper.

In the meantime fight your own fires as best you can until the department arrives "no faster than a trot!"

Terse, Tart and Timely: Those Saturday afternoon double header baseball games at the State Hospital diamond are proving very popular not only with a large group of patients, but many fans as well. . . In spite of signs restricting speed to "five miles" an hour around the athletic field many motorists were observed chasing through the grounds at paces that seemed nearer 25 miles an hour than five. . . The Jamestown Falcons are out in front as the PONY League heads down the home stretch with no less than three other teams involved in the hot fight for the flag. . . The Erie Lions Club has launched the advance ticket sale for the Save-An-Eye football game to be played in the Stadium there on Labor Day. . . The Rt. Rev. William Crittendon, bishop of the Erie diocese, who will address the annual dinner meeting of the Bishops' Men at Cook's Forest next Sunday afternoon, held the sacramental rite of confirmation at Emmanuel Church in Corry yesterday. . . Warren county residents who have heard and met him will be interested to learn that Dr. E. L. Nixon, potato authority at State College, is an uncle of U. S. Sen. Richard Nixon who is running on the G. O. P. ticket for the vice presidency. . . Homer Barr, who will appear on the Kiwanis Club amateur wrestling show as a benefit Thursday evening at War Memorial Field arrived last Friday from Clearfield where he had spent the week and took advantage of the opportunity to line up what looks like a star-studded card for the project.

Long's Caustic Words to Foe Are Sample of Coming Debates

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Louisiana Sen. Russell B. Long's number one political enemy in his home state is Leander Perez, district attorney of Plaquemines parish. Perez rules there as boss, but he is also spokesman for many of Louisiana's oil and sulphur millionaires, the Dixiecrats and the jolly-whites.

In a broadcast to his state before leaving for Europe the other day, Senator Long said his respects to Perez in these choice words, which are a fair sample of the kind of debate apt to be heard all across this broad land from now to November: "I have always wondered how I could carry Plaquemines parish 10 to one in a close race and lose that same parish 10 to one at a time when I was achieving the greatest majority that any candidate ever accumulated in the history of Louisiana."

"Perhaps there is no irregularity to it. Perhaps Mr. Perez works miracles in Plaquemines parish. . . I have no intention of leading a crusade into Plaquemines parish. However, I expect to do what I can to prevent the police-state methods of that area from being extended throughout Louisiana."

Neither of the vice-presidential candidates, John Sparkman of Alabama nor Richard Nixon of California, will resign his Senate seat to campaign in the national elections. Sparkman's term in the Senate runs to January, 1955, Nixon's to 1957, so the one who loses in November will still be around afterward.

There's no precedent to cause a congressman to resign his seat just because he's running for another office. John Garner of Texas was elected both congressman and vice president in 1940. Alben Barkley didn't resign from the Senate to run for vice president in 1948.

THE story of how the B-52 all-jet, swept-back-wing super-bomber "was born" on a Dayton hotel room dresser top has just been released by Boeing Airplane Co., its maker.

Back in 1948 a Boeing engineer-design team brought to Air Materiel Command plans for what it considered a hot new bomber on which he company had been working two years. But the Air Force wasn't interested. The plane was obsolete even before an experimental model could be built.

Somewhat chagrined, the experts retired to their hotel suite to hink it over. That was on Thursday night. On Friday morning they called up the Air Materiel Command headquarters and said they'd be back on Monday morning with a new design.

George Schairer, now chief of Boeing's technical staff, laid out the lines for the swept-back wing, then, hand-carved a model of the plane from balsa wood. This model, plus a 33-page report, was submitted on Monday morning as promised.

Today, less than four years later, the plane is being test flown in Seattle.

While the Russian Communists, their agents and agitators have a finger in almost every political disturbance that occurs anywhere in the world, an exception has to be made in the case of the recent Egyptian revolt that threw King Farouk out of his job.

Communism hasn't made much headway in any of the Moslem countries, with the possible exception of Iran, where the Tudeh party causes plenty of trouble.

In Egypt, Communist propagandizing hasn't made a dent, though the poverty of the great mass of the people should provide a natural breeding ground for discontent. But no one has questioned the loyalty of the Egyptian army leaders who decided to kick out their king. They thought it up and carried it out without any urging from Moscow.

UNCLE EF

The Democrats just wouldn't show any respect for Stevenson's repeated statements that he didn't want to be President. If he still feels that way, the Republicans would sure be delighted to accommodate him.

1952 POLIO PRECAUTIONS

RECOMMENDED BY THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Seven-year-old Karen Blecha enacts 1952 polio precautions recommended by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. When polio is around, the National Foundation cautions parents to watch for these signs: headache, fever, sore throat, upset stomach, tenderness and stiffness of neck and back. A person showing such symptoms should be put to bed at once, away from others. Then, call your doctor and follow his advice. If polio is diagnosed, call your local chapter of the March of Dimes for advice and assistance, including needed financial help.

Barbecued Chicken and 1859 Bathing Suits Are Features At K. of C.'s Annual Outing

Sunday will long be remembered by the Knights of Columbus as a day of outstanding fun, good fellowship, and delectable food, it having been the occasion of the Council's annual picnic at Marconi Outing club, and there was a large attendance.

The large committee got busy at 8 a. m., lining up a delectable luncheon which was served from noon until 3 p. m. The able chefs prepared dozens of plump chickens to be impaled on spits over the charcoal beds, and this resulted in a grand dinner which went on the tables at 6 p. m. sharp, including a whole field of fresh sweet corn, home-grown tomatoes and other delicacies.

The shipment of 1859 bathing suits arrived in good time, and K. of C. members, from the stringbean type of Chingo Scallie to the much more robust Alfonso Pace, more or less filled these to perfection. They wore such remarkably appropriate names as Miss Ally of Allegheny, Miss Rock of Slippery Creek, Miss Unpleasant of Pleasant.

PERSONAL ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hendrix, of Pittsburgh, visited Merle Graham enroute to Niagara Falls, N. Y. to visit Mr. and Mrs. Lenard Colter, and Salamanca, N. Y., where they will be the guests of the Herman Laverys.

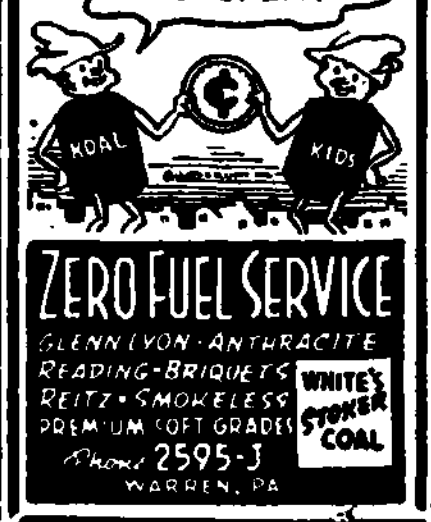

Mr. and Mrs. Nérin Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lundahl have returned from a very pleasant vacation tour of the New England States.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle N. Schuler and Mrs. Minnie Smith, 29 Buchanan street, spent the weekend in Reading with E. M. Schuler, their father and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Emrick, Fort Wayne, Ind., Mrs. W. I. Harrison, Union City, Ind., and P. D. Bull, Honolulu, Hawaii, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jamieson, Cobham Park, and other friends in Warren.

ant, Miss War of Warren, Miss Lydia of Pinkham, and Miss Kin of Kinzua. There was an applause meter hanging from the roof and this registered quite normally until the appearance of Mr. Pace in a straw skirt indirectly imported from Hawaii at which time the applause meter exploded with a thunderous roar and landed on an island in the river. Appropriate prizes such as dainty aprons and be-ribboned garments of a more intimate nature were awarded the participants. It was rumored 'round town today that some of these valiant heroes were having some difficulty in ridding themselves of make-up lipstick, an indelible brand having been substituted at the last minute by a prankster. The "bathing beauties" were Chingo Scallie, Frank Molinaro, Frank Gerardi, Tom James, Alfonso Pace, Joe Nichols and Tony Molinaro.

Benny and Gene Scallie were general chairmen for the outing, ably assisted by the following: Dan Lucia, Louie Chimenti, Ange Juliano, Frank Gerardi, Frank Blastic, William Hartnett, Paul Coppola, Myers Papalardo, Joe Nichols, John Clark, Tony Molinaro, Bruno Pace, Frank Molinaro, Tony Russo, Frank Stee, Joe Colosimo, Pete Salerno, Tom James, Chingo Scallie, Fred Aumer, Sam Gerardi, James Thomas, James Gortido, John Zolko, Dan Donovan, Mike Patrick, Peter Zastawney, Bunny Scallie, Fred Gagliardi, Frank Felesi, Leonard Constab, Andy Musante, Charles Musante, B. As this is to be the work session of the year a program along that line is being arranged by the Political Activities Committee. An attendance of a representative group from all voting precincts is urged, as this is considered one of the most important meetings of the year.

Anyone desiring transportation will please call Mrs. Howard Casey at 2288-J after five p. m., Tuesday or Wednesday.

The supper committee will furnish coffee, cream and rolls. Everyone attending is requested to bring own table service.

Lutheran Boy Camp Units Are Inspected 'Tween Downpours

The 1952 camping session of the Lutheran Boy's Camp began last Saturday with many of the fellows arriving in the early forenoon. After they checked in, the campers met old friends, made new ones, and so spent their time until lunch.

The afternoon sports went off as scheduled. In softball Maine and Kansas defeated Kentucky and Ohio, 12 to 7. (Each of the ten units represents some state of the Union.) In volleyball Pennsylvania took Iowa two out of three games. In basketball Oregon beat Texas 28 to 26.

A scavenger hunt was staged in the evening, with the Kentuckians led by MNT Confer, receiving the coveted award, a box of candy bars.

Rain pretty much dampened out Sunday activities. Morning chapel was well-attended with all campers joining in worship. After chapel and between downpours each of the nine units was most rigidly and thoroughly inspected by the staff. This ordeal of camping consists of checking how well-groomed and neat are the members of each unit, their tent and bunks, and the grounds immediately surrounding the tent.

The afternoon agenda was quite filled. Following a Harry Black chicken dinner special, the fellows rested for an hour or so. Pastor Edward Rogers conducted for the last time the Sunday church service. The boys then swam in the pool (filled with decidedly cold water) until supper. A vigorous contest of "Capture the Flag" so tired the lads that everyone gladly hit the sack.

OIL CITY TOT LOSES LIFE IN ODD MANNER

Oil City—A 22-month-old boy was killed instantly on Lawrence street here about seven o'clock Sunday evening, when he was struck by a car near his home.

The lad was Timothy J. Kresinski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Kresinski, of 319 Jefferson street, Oil City. He was struck by the rear of a car driven by Joseph Brzus of 365 Emerald street, Oil City, as the motorist backed a short distance to get clear of the curb before driving off from his parked position.

The baby was thrown to the pavement. His head struck very hard, and he was found to have suffered a fractured skull.

Timothy was taken to the hospital but was pronounced dead on arrival there. Dr. Maurice Dinberg, Venango County coroner, issued a verdict of accidental death.

The boy had been playing near by while his mother talked to Mr. Brzus, who was waiting for relatives to take them out for a ride. Apparently the youngster slipped behind the car. Mr. Brzus backed only a short distance, but the boy was knocked down.

HELD BY POLICE

Richard P. Stor of Youngsville, was lodged in county jail overnight after he was picked up by Youngsville city police on a charge of assault and battery, preferred before Justice of the Peace Perry Mead, Columbus. State police of the Corry station came to Warren this morning and took Proctor there.

Times-Mirror Carriers Eat And Play At Cinderella Lake Picnic

W P L REPORTING

Suddenly the summer seems nearly over. We'll have to work fast to get in all the loafing we've planned before September. Here are some titles that will help pass the time without resorting outright to thumb twiddling or counting pigeons:

Matador, by Barnaby Conrad—Limited in action to one day, this novel is the story of a great bull fighter who, having earned his million, wants to retire. However, he is goaded by pride into one more fight, and loses his life in his daring attempt to prove he is still the best in his profession. All the color, tension, ritual and fanaticism connected with bullfighting form the background of this unusual novel.

Angel Cake, by P. G. Wodehouse, has about as much real tension as its title. It seems that Barmy Fotheringay - Phipps, a naive English boy who has been in America for two years as a hotel clerk, inherits a bit of money. He is persuaded to invest the money in producing a play. The typical Wodehouse complications ensue. Life is a serious business, of course; but there are times when it makes a nice relaxing change to read something like this delicate farce, played against a background of muted bazookas.

Now We Are Free, by Marguerite Allis—After the American Revolution, a group of Connecticut soldiers returned to their homes, only to find that the freedom-religious and civil—for which they had fought had not been won. Some of them decided to try the frontiers of the West and found their way to Marietta on the Ohio River and to the Western Reserve on Lake Erie. This story serves to dramatize the real issues of the post-Revolutionary era in America.

The World Cannot Hear You, by Gwyn Thomas—The theme of this tale whose setting is a Welsh village, is the rivalry between Sylvestor, the wealthy and idealistic young man who wants to educate the people, and Picton, the unscrupulous but charming rascal who is interested only in making a profit. The story is really less important than the richly philosophic and slyly humorous conversation of the working-class characters in this ably written book.

Average whole hams as sold in the butcher shop is 63 per cent lean meat, 24 per cent fat, 10 per cent bone, and 3 per cent skin.

Difficult as it may sound, a few of the Times-Mirror's carrier boys are able to eat dry crackers, and whistle at the same time, this achievement having been demonstrated at the annual outing and picnic held Saturday at Cinderella Lake.

Less difficult and perhaps more enjoyable was the mass demonstration of consistent hunger in which each and every carrier took part, the award being the individual's own capacity to pack away soft drinks and ice cream cups during the afternoon and to get on the outside of a big chicken dinner early in the evening.

Come On In! The Water's Fine!

Times-Mirror Photographer Sparky Saylor just happened to have a camera along when he dropped by Cinderella Lake, Saturday, to look in on the carriers' picnic.

The exciting tug-o-war is shown in full sway, and you can see how much the carriers enjoy a chance to take a boat ride. In one of the boating pictures you can see a couple of young divers preparing to jump off the diving board, in the background. Circulation Manager Howard Clark pours as his carriers dig into the pop and ice cream.

The boys were transported to Cinderella Lake at 12:30 p. m. and immediately launched a program of sports events arranged by Circulation Manager Howard Clark. With no papers to deliver on Saturday, the boys didn't have to watch the clock, except to wonder how soon dinner would be served. There was a bubble gum contest, balloon race, a lively tug-o-war, swimming events, and a race around the lake. Dick Grosch won both a swimming race and the 50-yard ball-pushing contest in which his nose was used for locomotion. Dick Sherwood took the 100-yard dash, and the divisional winners in the around-the-lake race were Carol Greco, Ernest Blume of Clarendon, and Frank Moore. Winners of various other contests were Frank Moore, Glenn Rapp, Tom Cooper, Bill Clark, Tom Fitzgerald, Carl Calhoun, Curtis Johnson and David Fitzgerald. Appropriate awards were made, including a generous donation of tickets for the Library and Columbia theatres.

Other awards were made as follows: Dick Anderson, bicycle; Allen Bergman, football; Bill Kinney, shoes; Bill Manno, Louisville slugger bat; Don Henrik and Tom Fitzgerald, each a bike basket; and Carl Greco, gym bag.

During the afternoon the boys found little difficulty in disposing of 500 bottles of pop, 500 ice cream cups, and then did full justice to chicken, biscuits and gravy, mashed potatoes, peas, celery, pickles and olives, rolls, apple pie and milk. The dinner was served by the Lewis Caterers.

Included among the 70 in attendance were the members of The Times-Mirror Hot Stove League baseball team. Thanks were extended to W. A. Walker, publisher, and to Circulation Manager Clark for a great day of fun.

third year in February, is a volunteer civilian auxiliary of the Air Force, employed as a means of supplementing radar in providing aerial surveillance. According to Mr. Eberhardt the GOC is especially valuable in the matter of low altitude surveillance where radar is frequently ineffective due to curvature of the earth, terrain obstacles, and man-made structures.

Forty-nine filter centers and more than 19,000 observation posts make up the Ground Observer system in 36 states throughout the nation. While the Air Force hopes to have a FOC of at least 500,000 volunteers for full-time nationwide duty, there are only slightly more than 200,000 members enrolled at present.

ANOTHER CIRCUS
Youngsters in the neighborhood of the War Memorial Field Play-ground have completed plans for a circus to be staged in the rear of the property of Mr. and Mrs. Eldo DeLong, 205 Lexington avenue, at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon, as a benefit for the fund being raised to build a wading pool on the grounds. Another activity in connection with the project will be an ice cream social at the Play-grounds on the evening of Wednesday, August 20.

TODAY is pay day for all the folks who have classified ads.

WHO'S TO BLAME FOR THE STATE OF THIS NATION?

WHO'S TO BLAME—

1. FOR ALL THE DOMESTIC TROUBLES WE HAVE?
2. FOR ALL THE LAWS CONTROLLING OUR LIVES AND LIBERTY?
3. FOR HIGHER TAXES AND INFLATION?
4. FOR THE SIZE OF OUR NATIONAL DEBT?
5. FOR ALL THE CONFUSION WE HAVE?

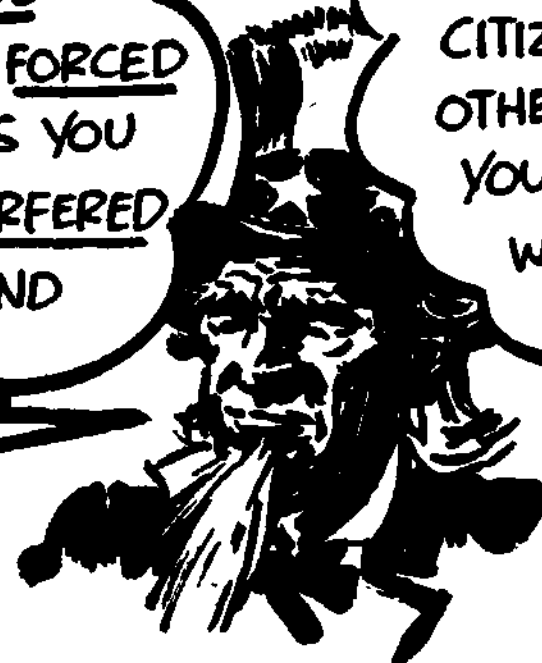

LET'S STOP BLAMING "SOMEBODY ELSE"

THERE JUST AREN'T ENOUGH "OTHER PEOPLE"
TO CAUSE ALL THE EVIL AND CONFUSION
WHICH WE HAVE TODAY!

HOW OFTEN HAVE YOU
FAVORED LAWS WHICH TOOK THE TAX MONEY OF SOMEBODY ELSE FOR YOUR BENEFIT—WHICH INTERFERED WITH THEIR RIGHT TO OWN PROPERTY?

HOW OFTEN HAVE YOU
FAVORED LAWS WHICH FORCED
OTHERS TO DO THINGS YOU
WANTED—WHICH INTERFERED WITH THEIR LIVES AND THEIR LIBERTY?

HOW OFTEN HAVE YOU
BEEN INDIFFERENT TO YOUR RESPONSIBILITY AS AN AMERICAN CITIZEN—BY NOT CARING WHEN OTHERS PASSED LAWS WHICH TOOK YOUR PROPERTY OR INTERFERED WITH YOUR LIBERTY?

HOW LONG HAS IT BEEN SINCE YOU HAVE INSISTED THAT THE OFFICIAL ACTS OF YOUR REPRESENTATIVES IN GOVERNMENT BE IN ACCORDANCE WITH THIS MORAL PURPOSE

EVERY INDIVIDUAL, in receiving the gift of LIFE from God, is given the responsibility of preserving, developing and perfecting that gift.

So every person is given INDIVIDUALITY—different faculties, different and various amounts of talent with which to assume the responsibility for his own existence.

Every individual is endowed by his Creator with the LIBERTY to use his God-given faculties for their intended purpose—and through the free use of those faculties to acquire PROPERTY.

Every individual also has a natural right, from God, to protect his God-given Life, Liberty and Property from the interference of any other individual—BECAUSE THESE THREE GIFTS OF GOD PRECEDE ALL MAN-MADE LAWS AND ARE SUPERIOR TO THEM.

Therefore, all individuals must have equal political rights and equal political duties. One group cannot claim certain rights for itself, while placing the duties on others. So if we are to keep our God-given rights—

THE PURPOSE OF OUR GOVERNMENT MUST BE—

"TO MAKE AND ENFORCE LAWS WHICH PROTECT EVERY INDIVIDUAL'S LIFE, LIBERTY AND PROPERTY FROM THE INTERFERENCE OF ANY OTHER INDIVIDUAL—AND THESE LAWS MUST PROTECT THE PEOPLE FROM GOVERNMENT ITSELF."

All history proves that when a government does not have this purpose it becomes immoral!

GUIDE TO FREEDOM

JUDGE ALL LAWS BY ASKING:—

"DOES THIS LAW PROTECT EVERY INDIVIDUAL IN HIS GOD-GIVEN RIGHT TO LIFE, LIBERTY AND PROPERTY FROM THE INTERFERENCE OF ANY OTHER INDIVIDUAL OR FROM GOVERNMENT ITSELF?"

AROUND THE WORLD

POP MAY BE PRESIDENT—Adlai E. Stevenson, Jr., son of the Democratic nominee for President, relaxes with a canteen of water after running the obstacle course at the Marine base in Quantico, Va. The 22-year-old Leatherneck is undergoing officer candidate training. His buddies never knew that his dad was a governor until news of the nomination swept the camp.

WHAT'S COOKING?—In a "stew" all his own, six-months-old John D. Connolly, Jr., enjoys a refreshing bath as he cools off in Mama's kitchen pot. The home-made swimming pool scene occurred at John's home in Clifton, N. J., and was probably repeated in many other homes during the recent stifling heat wave.

RUSTIC CHARMERS—Two lovely young girls add to the beauty of a sand-sculptured oak in the dune lands adjacent to Cape Hatteras Woods, N. C. The charming young lasses are Amelia Burrus of Norfolk, Va., and Winona Peele of Hatteras Village. And if anyone has ever seen three more beautiful works of nature than these let him consider himself indeed fortunate.

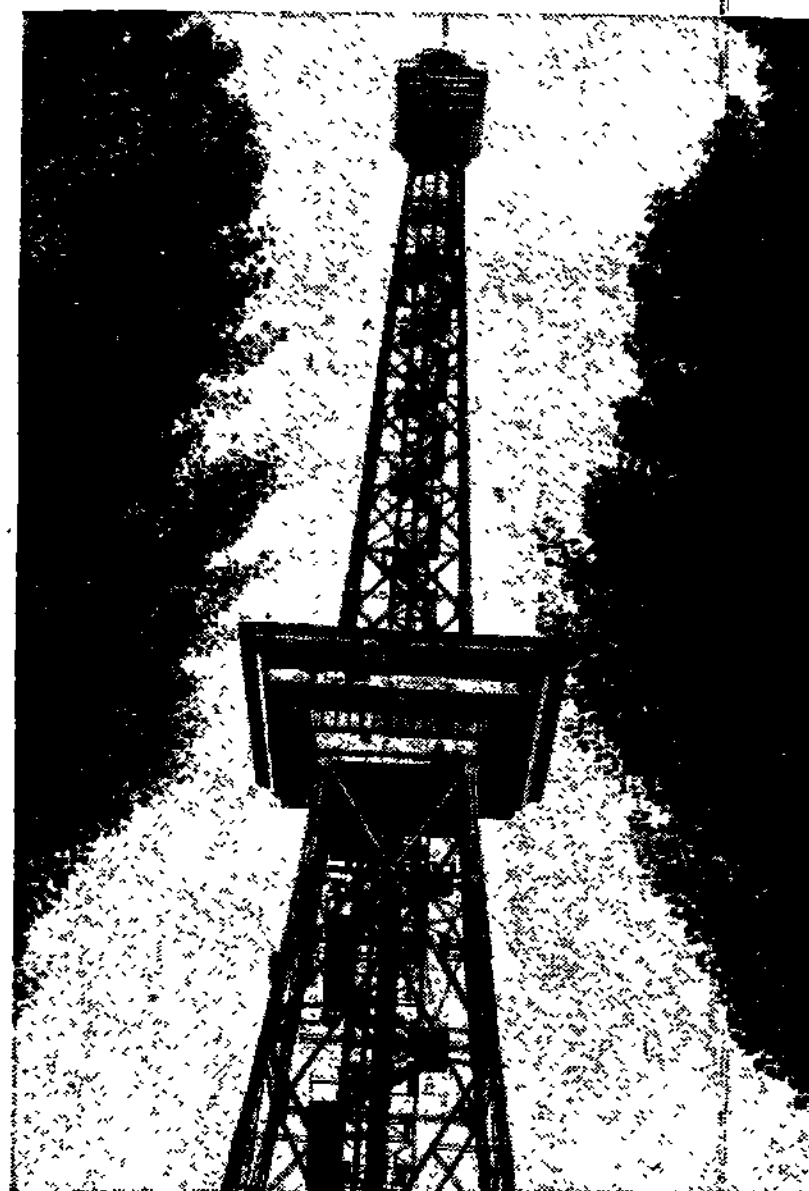

THEIR OWN SAINT—escorted by community garbed policemen, residents of Rome's Trastevere district carry a figure of the Madonna of the Carmine during a special "Festa De Noiantri" ("Our Own Feast") ceremony. The ceremony dates back to the early days of Rome when the poor people of the district decided to have their very own yearly feast, just as the aristocrats did, and chose the Madonna of the Carmine as their saint.

STILL SMOKING—Sophie Tucker, last of the "Red Ho Mamas," shows crewmen of the U. S. Navy command ship Aulroback how she earned her reputation some 40 years ago. On her way to the Isle of Capri for a vacation, the veteran entertainer stopped to perform for the appreciative seamen at Naples, Italy.

OUT IN THE STREET—Mrs. Julia Lifschultz (left) shares a couch with her seven children after the family was evicted from their home in Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Lifschultz promised in January that she would move within six months. When she was unable to find new quarters, the landlord ordered her to leave. The children range in age from 15 to two years.

TOWER IN THE TREES—The Berlin Funkturm, landmark of the former German capital's West sector, is framed by two trees in a close-up view of the 130-meter-high steel structure. The tower is scheduled for a forthcoming industrial fair.

BIRTH OF A COMMONWEALTH

HAPPY GOVERNOR—Parades and flag-raising ceremonies recently marked Puerto Rico's emergence as a self-governed "free commonwealth" associated with the United States. Below, Gov. Munoz-Marin receives the congratulations of a friend at a celebration in the capital city of San Juan. The 100-mile-long island has 2,250,000 inhabitants.

THE ISLAND CELEBRATES—Constitution Day ceremonies reach a climax, top, as troops and guests watch flag-raising ceremonies at the historic fortress of El Morro. Also featured in cities throughout the new commonwealth were parades with pretty girls and lavish floats, as at bottom.

BUILT-IN HINDSIGHT—When Mr. Pelican, a resident of the London Zoo, heard someone sneaking up behind him, he decided to take a look-see. He didn't need a rear view mirror, either, as he simply made use of his flexible neck to swivel his head around—without even bothering to move his feet. Only disadvantage was that he got a mouthful of feathers.

PUBLIC BIRTH—Actor Alan Ladd, dressed as a French Foreign Legion officer, gets acquainted with a baby camel which was born unexpectedly during filming of a Hollywood movie. Martha the Camel (left), a 9-year-old movie veteran, ignored her role completely, became a mother in front of the entire troupe.

BOB BENSON

LOU CUMMINGS

KEN BROWN

CARL NELSON

With eight bouts on the card for the amateur wrestling program being sponsored at War Memorial Field this Thursday evening by the Kiwanis Club, the four boys pictured above will be playing a big part in local interest. Bob Benson, who will be grappling Clearfield's Mac Hummel in the 175 pound division Thursday, was one of Warren's first outstanding wrestlers when the sport made its debut in Warren High School about four years ago. Under Coach Bob Jewell, Bob wrestled as a 185-pounder and always proved a rugged opponent. Since his high school career Benson has kept in shape and has represented Warren several times in tournaments. Benson's biggest foe has been Ray Bronzie of Edinboro. Twice now Bronzie has won decisions of the local contender in the Great Lakes Tournament at Erie in the finals and also beat Benson on points at the District Olympic Tryouts in Pittsburgh.

All of the four boys shown are WHS lettermen, but Lou Cummings, probably the scrappiest wrestler on last year's team, and Den Brown will still see more scholastic action this year. Little Louie wrestled most of last season 10 pounds under his class. On Thursday he will meet Joe Accorino, who lost a 6-0 decision to Greenville's Tom Seiple, in the Pennsylvania State Regionals. Cummings was defeated by Seiple in the district meet.

A 127-pounder, Den Brown, who turned in a 3-5 season with the Dragons, will give opposition to Russ Cripioni, of Clearfield.

Carl Nelson was Blue & White's standout in the last campaign, winning the District 10 crown at Oil City, but losing in the semi-finals in the Regional matches. In the regular schedule Carl won six matches, lost one and battled to one draw.

Ashenfelter Given A Rousing Welcome On His Return Home

Collegeville—(P)—Horace Ashenfelter, former Penn State College athlete who won and set a new record in the 3,000 meter Olympic steeplechase, was treated to a roaring welcome by residents of this small college town and nearby Trappe.

Lloyd H. Wood, lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, paid tribute to Ashenfelter, first American to win the 3,000 meter event, when the "local boy" returned to his home surroundings to take part in a parade in his honor Saturday.

The parade started in Trappe and ended at Ursinus College in Collegeville where Ashenfelter, an FBI agent in the Newark, N. J., office, was joined by his wife, Lilian.

At Ursinus gymnasium where the formal reception was held, Ashenfelter, who ran the 3,000 meter event in the record-shattering time of 8:45.8, was greeted by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Ashenfelter, Sr.

After the reception Ashenfelter was driven to Pottstown radio station WPAZ where he was honored.

Hearn Is Reason the Giants Don't Give Up on Kennedy

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Largely because of Sal Maglie's aching back, the Giants found themselves on the short side where they expected to be strongest—in the most important pitching department.

Yet Leo Durocher could not turn to the man with the most stuff—Montie Kennedy.

Frank Shellenback says scouts could hustle every section of the country and not find another arm like Kennedy's.

But the strapping, left-handed Virginian has done practically nothing all season, which has been his case history since he came out of military service in 1946.

Jim Hearn, now the biggest Giant of them all, is a striking example of why the New York Nationals' brass does not give up on Kennedy. The Cardinals passed Hearn along after eight years, only to see him win 11 games for the Giants in less than three months and lead the league with an earned-run average of 2.49. Last season, Hearn, with Maglie and Jansen, formed the big three that brought off the little miracle.

Coach Shellenback and Freddie Fitzsimmons had Hearn throw a little more overhanded, helped him quit fighting himself, built his confidence.

MOST pitchers take their own good time maturing, so frequently the front office doesn't know what it has until the feed bill has been paid for several years.

Pitching is a craft easy for only a gifted few, Bob Feller being an excellent illustration.

For all others, pitching is a tough struggle. To them, control and self-reliance come only with increased experience. Some don't realize their mistakes, or attempt to correct them, until it is too late.

Then there are those who positively refuse to take care of themselves. Hank Behrman, a Dodger who went to the C's, could be used as Exhibit A. The Dutchman has all the physical requirements.

Erv Palica had more ability than any other pitcher. Yet Leroy Dessen could get nothing out of the right-hander last season, finally blew up and charged him with not putting out.

There is a tremendous difference between a thrower and a pitcher, and a lot of guys never learn.

VETERANS' INFORMATION

Questions and Answers for Korean Vets

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—Q. What are the requirements to qualify for on-farm training?

A. The veteran must be assured of control of his farm, either by ownership, lease or some other agreement.

The farm must be of such size and character that (1) together with classroom work, it will take up the vet's full time; (2) it will permit instruction in all necessary aspects of farm management; and (3) it will assure him of a satisfactory income at least by the end of his course.

Q. What are the maximum monthly amounts a vet can get for being an on-the-job trainee?

A. Top monthly amounts are $70 without dependents, $85 with one dependent, and $130 with more than one dependent.

Q. What's this about a ceiling on earnings if you are taking on-the-job training?

A. The law places a $310-a-month ceiling on job training, regardless of dependency status. Should a veteran's training allowance plus his earnings as a trainee exceed this amount, VA will reduce the allowance accordingly. There's no ceiling, however, on what he may earn.

Q. Exactly how are payments going to be made to vets taking some kind of the new training?

A. He will get his monthly allowance some time after the end of each month of training completed. VA must receive from the veteran and the school proof that he was actually taking his course during that period. A written statement will be accepted as proof.

Q. What about courses in bartending?

A. That's out, along with personality development and dancing courses.
